Key Indicator - 3.1 Promotions of Research and Facilities

Metric 3.1.5: 7. Mootcourt

Moot Court activity has been made part of the Clinical Course as prescribed by the Bar Council of India in its rules. Mooting is an activity that is practiced in Law Schools which comes closest to being a lawyer. It looks like a court hearing wherein there are two teams i.e. one representing the aggrieved party and the other defending the opposite party. The students get a factual scenario on which they have to work. This mooting activity boosts the research skills of the students. They tend to identify the legal issues which are embodied in the facts and research upon the laws and case laws that can be applied to the same. Accordingly the issues are framed by the parties and advance arguments are prepared by both the parties. After the research is done by the students, they need to prepare memorials which are termed as written submission of their arguments and the extensive research done by them. Therein all the supporting case laws, laws are mentioned.

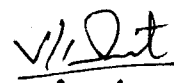

To prepare the students to become good intellectual lawyers, mooting plays a vital role in developing confidence, enhancement of speaking skills, argumentative and research skills. It also enhances the writing skills as the memorials prepared by the teams are awarded for the research done and presentation. Moot problems are prepared in any subject matter related to law which is unsettled or which requires recent developments.

Objectives of Moot-

It enhances the thinking and analyzing skills of the students.

It enhances the writing, speaking and advocacy skills of the students.

It enables the students to learn working in teams.

The procedure that is followed in the Moot Court Room resembles to that of the Real Court Room. There are judges sitting to listen to the teams. There is a date given to the teams for submission of their memorials. After which; before the day when the moot exercise has to begin, there is a process of draw of lots. In this, the chits are prepared and teams are asked to pick them up and accordingly it is decided which team is going to speak against which team. After this when the Competition begins, as the judges enter the court room; the teams have to stand up from their seats to show respect to the Judges. The teams are dressed in proper Court Room Uniform. Colleges organize Intra as well as Inter Moot Court Competitions.

Mooting is not identical to debating or public speaking but it resembles somewhat to it as the teams are evaluated on the basis of speaking skills along with the arguments advanced. It is a form of persuasive advocacy. This activity plays an important role in legal education and henceforth, it has been made part of the course curriculum of the final year students as well.

School of Law, Mody University has Moot Court Activity as part of their syllabus for the final year law students. In the same, students from other interested years are also allowed to participate.

In this, students are supposed to speak within a time limit after which they are not allowed to continue with their arguments. So the teams need to frame and prepare the arguments in a manner that they are able to put forth the same within the prescribed time. There are proper Moot Court rules and manners which the students need to follow while entering the Moot Court Room.

When any Judge asks any question, the replies need to be humble and to the point. The teams need to put their arguments in a decent manner and not use any harsh words while being grilled by the Judges.

School of Law, Mody University has also been active in organizing National as well as International Moot Court Competitions. International Moot Court Competition sponsored by CLEA was organized from November 30-December 2, 2012. And National Moot Court has been organized from 13-15 September, 2013. Eminent personalities including Supreme Court Judges, Chairman of Law Commission of India, Supreme Court Advocates were invited as Judges in the respected Moot Courts.

Students of School of Law, Mody University of Science and Technology are also provided funds while attending the moot court Competitions out of College. The students are encouraged by the teachers to participate in Moot Courts. Students of School of Law, MUST have participated in various National and International Moots as well. Recently, in February, 2021, the students participated in the very famous Jessup Moot Court Competition.

There is a well furnished Moot Court Room in the Law Department of the University, wherein all the Intra-Moot Court Competitions are organized.
